W. S. Schley—The Thetis and Bear, with their Precious Burden, at St.
Johns, N. B., Awaiting Official Orders.

LIEUTENANT A. W. GREELY

Was born in Newburyport, Mass., in 1842.
He served through the war, being engaged in nearly every battle fought by the Army of the Potomac, reaching the grade of captain and brevet-major. He was for many years connected with the signal service, and was chosen to the arduous task of polar exploration through his pluck and scientific attainments.

Greely Found.

St. John's, N. F., July 18.—The report has reached here that the Greely relief expedition has found eight of Lieutenant Greely's party alive, but further particulars are wanting.

LATER.

St. John's, N. F., July 18.—According to the latest information, seventeen of the Greely party are dead and eight alive, Lieutenant Greely among the latter.

THE REPORT CONFIRMED.

WASHINGTON, July 18.—A dispatch is just received at the Navy Department confirming the report that eight of Lieutenant Greely's party have been found alive, and stating that Lieutenant Greely is the only officer found.

The party were discovered by Lieutenant Emory, of the Bear, and are now at St. John's.

WASHINGTON, July 18.—Following is a copy of the dispatch received at the Navy Department.

"St. John's, N. F., July 18.—9 A. M.— Hon. W. E. Chandler, Secretary of the Navy, Washington: Thetis, Bear and Lock Garry, arrived here to-day from West Greenland. All well. Separated from the Alert 150 miles north during a gale at 9 p. m., June 22, five miles off Cape Sabine, in Smith's Sound, and the Thetis and Bear rescued alive Lieutenant A. W. Greely, Sergeants Brainard, Fredericks, and Long, Hospital Steward Bieder-back, Private Connell and Sergeant Ellison, the only survivors of the Lady Franklin Bay expedition. Sergeant Ellison had lost both hands and feet by frost bite, and died July 6, at God Haven, three days after amputation, which had become imperative. Seventeen of the twenty-five persons composing the expedition perished by starvation at the point where found. One was drowned while sealing to procure food. Twelve bodies of the dead were secured, and are now on board the Thetis and Bear.
One Esquimaux, Turnevik, was buried at Disco, in accordance with the desire of Inspector of Mister Gizzland. Five bodies buried in the ice fort, near camp, were swept away to sea by wind and currents before my arrival, and could not be rescued. The names of the dead recovered, with dates of death, are as follows:

THE DEAD.

Sergeant Cross, January 1, 1884; Wedrick, Esquimaux, April 5; Sargent Linn, April 6; Lieutenant Lockwood, April 9; Sargent Jewell, April 12; Private Ellison, May 19;

Sargent Ralston, May 23; Private Whistler, May 24; Sargent Israel, May 27; Lieutenant Kingsbury, June 1; Private Henry, June 6; Private Schneider, June 18. The names of the buried in the ice fort, with the date of their death, whose bodies were not recovered, are Sergeant Rice, April 9, 1884; Corporal Salen, June 3; Private Bender, June 6, Acting Assistant Sergeant Pavy, June 6; Sergeant Gardner, June 12.

Those drowned, by breaking through newly-formed ice while sealing, Jeno Edwards, Esquimaux, April 4. Would urgently suggest that the bodies now on board be placed in metallic cases here for safe and better transportation. This appears to me imperative.
Greely abandoned Fort Conger August 9, 1883, and reached Baird Inlet September 1 following with his party.

He abandoned all his boats and was adrift thirty days on an ice floe in Smith Sound.
His permanent camp was established Octobe 21, 1883, at the point where he was found.
During nine months the party lived upon a scant allowance of food brought from Fort Conger. That cached at Payer Harbor and Cape Isabella by Sir George Nares, in 1875, was found but much damaged by the lapse of time. That cached by Beebe at Cape Sabine, in 1882, and a small amount saved from the wreck of the Proteus, in 1883, and landed by Lieutenants Gartington and Cowell on the beach where Greely's party were found camped. When these provisions were consumed the party were forced to live upon boiled seal skin strips from their sealskin clothing.
Lichens and shrimps were preserved in good weather when they were strong enough to make exertion. As 1,300 shrimps were required to make a gill measure, the labor was too exhausting to sustain life entirely.

The channel between Cape Sabine and Littleton Island did not close on account of violent gales all winter, so that 240 rations at the latter point could not be reached.

All of Greely's records and all of the instruments brought by him from Fort Conger are recovered and are on board.

From Hare Island to Smith's Sound I had a constant and furious struggle with ice. Impassable floes and solid barriers were overcome by watchfulness and patience. No opportunity to advance a mile escaped me, and for several hundred miles our ships were forced to ram their way from lead to lead through ice varying in thickness from three to six feet, and when rafted, much greater.
The Thetis and Bear reached Cape York, June 18, after a passage of twenty-one days in Melville Bay, with two advance ships of the Dundee whaling fleet, and continued to Cape Sabine. Returning, seven days later, we fell in with seven others of this fleet, off Westenholme Island, and announced Greely's rescue to them that they might not be delayed from their fishing grounds nor be tempted into the dangers of Smith's Sound in view of the reward of $25,000 offered by Congress. Returning across Melville Bay we fell in with the Alert and Lock Garry, off Devil's Thumb, struggling through heavy ice.

Commander Coffin did admirably to get along so far with transports so early in the season before the opening had occurred.

Lieutenant Emory, with the Bear, has supported me throughout with great skillfulness and unflinching readiness in accomplishing the great duty of relieving Greely.

I would ask instructions about Lock Garry as the charter party held by her master differs in several respects from mine.

The Greely party are much improved in health since rescued, but their condition was critical in the extreme when found, and for some days after. Forty-eight hours' delay in reaching them would have been fatal to all now living. This season North is late and the closest for years. Smith's Sound was not open when I left Cape Sabine. Winter about Melville Bay was the most severe for twenty years. This great result is entirely due to the prompt action and unwearied energy of yourself and the Secretary of War in fitting this expedition for the work it has had the honor to accomplish.

[Signed.]

W. S. SCHLEY,
Commander.

The above map of the territory between Washington and the North Pole presents, at a glance, the difficulties of the passage to Grant Land when it is remembered that ice is first encountered at Newfoundland. This whole region has been the field of more exploring and relief expeditions since 1497—when John Cabot first attempted the northwest passage—than probably any similar section of the globe. From 1497 to 1845 no less than 200 voyages were made to discover a northwest passage to Asia, the British Government offering in 1746 the sum of $100,000 for such discovery. On May 19, 1845, sailed the ill-fated Sir John Franklin expedition, to search for which cost the English Government many million pounds sterling, employing as many as forty ships. The history of the many expeditions to the North Pole since 1845 are too well known to refer to here.

GOOD WORK AND ALL WELL.

WASHINGTON, July 18.—General Hazen has received a dispatch from Lieutenant Greely stating that the survivors are doing well and members of the party succeeded in getting eighty miles farther north than any previous explorers.

COMMANDER W. S. SCHLEY.

Commander Winfield Scott Schley is a native of the State of Maryland. He was born about forty-five years ago. Choosing a sea man's life, he was educated at the Naval Academy. He left the institution in 1860, and was an officer on board the frigate Potomac stationed at Ship Island, when the first gun of the war was fired.

The war gave him the opportunity to distinguish himself, of which he made the best use. He was made Lieutenant after the fight at Port Hudson. Subsequently he commanded the gunboat Waterer, and was promoted to be Lieutenant Commander during that time. In 1867 he was assigned to be an instructor at the Naval Academy. Four years afterward he was appointed Commander of the Bernicia, then in the Asiatic fleet. His duties subsequently have been aboard and ashore, notably a second time as instructor and in a responsible position in the Naval Bureau of Equipment and Navigation.
He was holding the office last named when appointed to the command of the Greely Relief Expedition.

THE GREELY SEARCH.

On June 21, 1880, Lieutenant A. W. Greely sailed from Washington with the intention of establishing a station in Grant land, latitude eighty-two degrees north. From this depot as a base of supplies, parties were to move explorations further north. He landed on the 14th of August, 1881, from the steamer Proteus, at Discovery harbor, Lady Franklin Bay, with a party of two officers and twenty-two men—and provisions for about four years. The vessel, which transported him there, returned August 25, 1881, and since then no news had been received from him. A supply expedition was sent out by the war department in 1882, but found the entrance to Smith Sound blocked by ice, and failed to reach him. In 1883 the Proteus attempted it again, but was crushed in the ice at the entrance to Smith Sound. The rescuing expedition consisted of three vessels. The steamer Thetis, the flagship of the expedition, Com.
W. S. Schley, commander. The Bear, Lieut.
W. H. Emory, commander, and the war sloop Alert, presented by the British Government, George W. Coffin, commander.

A Defaulter Who Speculated and Then Tried Suicide.

ST. PAUL, Minn., July 18.—D. E. Swan, chief of the local treasurer's office of the Northern Pacific, was yesterday reported short several thousand dollars and to have fled with a woman. He was arrested at White Bear Lake, where he went in a carriage and secreted himself in the woods. He had attempted suicide by an overdose of morphine. The amount of his default, disclosed by an examination of his books, is a fraction over $5,000. He will be brought here for examination and be prosecuted to the full extent of the law. Swan was once wealthy, but lost his money by the default of a New Jersey bank. He had been speculating in Wall street, and there lost the Company's money.

FLOUR PRODUCTION.

The Large Weekly Output at Minneapolis, Minn.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., July 18.—Official figures show the flour productions last week to have been lighter, though the difference was not great. The total output was 89,900 barrels, averaging 14,816 barrels daily for the six working days, against 91,536 barrels the preceding week. Two of the mills idle last week have been started up, and there were nineteen in operation Tuesday out of the whole number of twenty-two in the city, making an increase in the production this week quite probable. Millers report an improved demand for flour, and while no better prices are obtained, it gives them courage to hope that the time is not far distant when the market will show a general improvement.

A DEMENTED YOUNG MAN

For Whom the Late Chicago Convention was too Much.

His Piteous Appeal for Protection—Melancholia Superinduced by Business Reverses—Returned to the Asylum.

DETROIT, Mich., July 18.—"I wish your protection. I have been kidnaped and am being taken away against my will."

This startling statement was made by a young man who dashed up to a patrolman at the Michigan Central Depot last night, closely followed by three other men. To emphasize the assertion he held up a pair of white hands joined together by a pair of steel handcuffs.
He was a young man probably twenty-six years of age, well built. Before he had said many words it became evident that he was in sane. One of the group, a handsome, well dressed young man, said:

"That is my brother, Charles J. Mosier, and this other gentleman is our father, Alfred Mosier, of Mosier & Dunning, vessel owners of Chicago. My brother was in the drug business at West Troy, New York, where our father resides, but failed in business, and through melancholia became insane. He was confined in the asylum at Poughkeepsie, New York, but was released a few months ago before entirely cured. He seemed very well until the Democratic Convention, which he attended in company with young Sam Tilden, who is married to my sister. The excitement there was too much for him, and he went wrong again. My father had just left Chicago and gone to West Bay City, where he has a lumber business, when he was informed of the relapse. My brother had $300 when he started out, and during those few days he contrived to secure $500 in unpaid bills. He had also been stabbed in the neck and was carrying on terribly.
He has an old power-of-attorney to draw on my father's account, and had just drawn a large check, which was fortunately stopped."

A straight jacket was procured in anticipation of trouble when the Canada Southern train arrived. The prisoner made a stout resistance, but was forced on to the car. He will be taken back to Poughkeepsie.

ABBEY PENNILESS.

The Property of the Great Theater Manager Sold Under Mortgage.

NEW YORK, July 18.—The morning Journal says: Carlotta Crabtree, better known as "Lotta," and her mother, have foreclosed a mortgage on the Park Theater and International Hotel, Boston. It is understood that the price paid for the property was $350,000.
The building belonged to Abbey & Schoffel, his partner. This leaves Abbey practically penniless, but not owing a dollar. Though it is not probable that he can soon again make as large sums of money as he has in the past, for such events as the Bernhard, Langtry and Irving engagements do not repeat themselves, he is pretty certain of a comfortable income. The Park Theater in Boston netted about $25,000 profit last year and the Grand Opera House here $20,000. Mary Anderson made for Abbey in London last year $60,000.
He is still her manager for two years. Abbey is now living in London.

GAGGED AND ROBBED.

Three Thugs Secure $2,500 Cash and $300 in Goods.

CULPEPPER, Va., July 18.—Tuesday night at 11 o'clock Frank Somerville, of the firm of J. W. Somerville & Co., Mitchell's Station, returned from a neighboring town with $1,300 he had received for some cattle sold. He was met at the door of his store by three masked men, who, with cocked revolvers, made him surrender. He was bound and gagged and tied into the cellar and fastened to the floor.
The thieves took his money and watch, then blew open the safe, getting about $1,300.
They also took about $300 worth of dry goods, but overlooked a package of $400. The burglars drove away in Somerville's buggy. No arrests. Somerville was found yesterday morning in an almost dying condition.

MELODY AND DEATH.

After Music by the Band Comes the Music of the Spheres.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., July 18.—Last night the new Louisville Press Club gave a successful and largely-attended concert at Phoenix Hill Park. At 1 a. m., after all had departed and attendants were putting out the lights, Henry Charlton, an old printer, and for years proofreader on the Louisville Commercial, blew his brains out at the entrance to the Park.
Old age and intemperance were the causes.
Charlton was very fond of music, and had often expressed a wish to die amid strains of harmony. He told a number of his friends that he proposed to commit suicide as soon as he had heard the Press Club concert.

Killed by an Elevator.

CINCINNATI, July 18.—One of the employes at C. S. Rankin's grate and mantel works, 183 West Pearl street, undertook to lower the elevator, but it seemed to have become lodged at the third floor in some manner.
Going up stairs the horrible sight of one of their fellow-workmen lying on the elevator almost floating in blood met their gaze. It was the body of Peter Neider, aged 28, single, who boarded at Third and Plum, and has been employed at the mantel works for the past three years as a striper. The upper portion of his skull had been almost severed at the ears, and he had evidently been dead but a few minutes. He is a cripple and walked with a stick. It is presumed he leaped against the back of the elevator, which is boarded in three feet from the floor, and carelessly allowed his head to project under the beams of the fourth floor.

Flagg Hauled Down.

BOSTON, July 18.—George W. Flagg, of Middlebury, Secretary of the Republican State Committee, has sent in his resignation, owing to his inability to conscientiously support the nominations of Elaine and Logan.

Texas' Increased Value.

GALVESTON, Tex., July 18.—A special to the News from Austin says: "According to the assessment roll returned by the State Controller, the taxable value of the State this year shows an increase over last year of $60,000, 100."
